Quest for Noiseless Rails.

From the Chicago Tribune.
The scientific American points out the rich harvest that awaits the inventor who shall produce a rail over which street cars may pass noiselessly. In the worst of cases, such as those in Chicago, the din is nerve-racking, and even when the best conditions there is an annoying noise. There is no noiseless joint, and the "clicking" marks the progress of every train, and the blow given by every wheel as it strikes the joints can be heard blocks away. The conclusion which is produced whenever a wheel passes a joint is due to the fact that as a wheel leaves the end of a rail that end is depressed below the end of the rail against which it abuts. So when the wheel reaches the joint it strikes a blow that increases in elation according to the poor quality of the track. The need is for a joint as strong and stiff as the body of the rail itself, and when this is obtained there will be a practically noiseless joint.

SHE SHOT A CHUTE.

And Landed Clothespin Fashion on the Neck of an Innocent Bystander.

James H. Stone, a well-known Omaha citizen, lies at the Presbyterian Hospital with a dislocated neck. Miss Addie Tangney, a young Omaha girl, is responsible for his condition. She fell through a chute seventy feet long. Stone happened to be passing the mouth of the chute at the time the young lady fell. She landed on his neck, occupying a position similar to a clothespin when it is on a line. She says she is none the worse for her meteoric fall.

Miss Addie Tangney, twenty years old, the comely and buxom daughter of Henry Tangney, living at 1807 Mason street, began work at the new building at the first time she had ever worked in the receiving depot of a paper mill, and things went so well that she was promoted to a position of printer and news stands. But the greatest surprise of all remained for her when she found herself falling down a seventy-foot chute, and falling into a man to whom she had never been introduced.

It all happened so quickly that no one seems to know exactly what set the train of circumstances in motion. This much, however, is known: She was at least a score of witnesses.

Miss Tangney was told to stand at the mouth of the chute and throw into its hungry gullet a bundle of papers. It was then that there was a scream. Twenty boys and girls looked just in time to see the young lady fall. She was not hurt, but she was badly shaken. She was taken to the hospital, and her condition is now such that she is expected to recover.

James H. Stone was working at the time he was struck. He was a well-known citizen, and his fall was a great surprise to all who knew him.

SAYS PECK WAS BRUSQUE

MR. SAYEN COMPLAINS OF THE COMMISSIONER GENERAL.

Says Mr. Peck Ignored His Appointment as Commissioner From Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK, August 18.—William Harry Sayen, state commissioner from Pennsylvania to the Paris exposition, who returned today on the steamship Lucania, says that he, as a representative of the state of Pennsylvania, was treated with scant courtesy by Commissioner General Ferdinand Peck.

"When I went to Paris I am Commissioner General Peck, and showed him the commissioner from the governor of Pennsylvania," said Mr. Sayen. "Mr. Peck told me that he was a United States official, and recognized no authority except that of the United States. If the governors of the different states chose to appoint commissioners that was their affair. I am afraid I might express my opinion in this matter too strongly for publication."

"It has been reported from the other side that the many state and other officials have caused annoyance to the commissioner general in their endeavors to get invitations to different events. What is the truth of these reports?"

"I cannot answer that. For myself, I asked Commissioner Peck for nothing, and I expected nothing from him. He was good to me. I paid my way to the exhibition when I went, as I did elsewhere. What I did want was the freedom of the Pennsylvania section and on account of the treatment I received I did not go near the United States section."

"The exhibition when I was there was in a bad way. The question still presented many difficulties, but it is felt that all these difficulties are made lighter by the course this government has taken. It is a most satisfactory position to deal with the problem. How long it will be necessary for our troops to remain there depends upon information not yet in the possession of the President. But the hope is entertained that further hostilities will be unnecessary."
